

PRATTONIA • 1939

The book cover features a minimalist design with a light cream background. A large, solid tan-colored triangle points upwards from the bottom left corner. Another smaller, lighter cream triangle is positioned above it, pointing downwards. The word "Prattonia" is written in a black, elegant cursive script, slanted diagonally across the upper portion of the cover, overlapping both the cream and tan triangular areas.

OVER a quarter of a century ago, Mr. Pope was graduated from the Department of Architecture at Pratt Institute. Uninterruptedly since his graduation he gave of himself to our institution — first as a teacher — then, later, as the supervisory leader in Architecture. Never did he waver from those qualities that mark a truly great teacher; he was supremely loyal, sincere, and generous.

Ever giving unstintingly to his school, yet he found time to render outstanding service in his chosen field to his City, State, and Federal Government. His council and leadership were truly national in scope.

In the Department of Architecture of the Art School at Pratt Institute he has built a most worthy living monument. His impress is deep-rooted and will endure. Surely he has lived not in vain.

F O R E W O R D

THE aim of Prattonia is to record the happenings of the school year at Pratt. Eight months of action by the Board is necessary to make the book a realization. For the most part there is little immediate reward for the effort spent. If, however, when in retrospect this volume brings memories of days at Pratt, we of Prattonia feel that we have succeeded.

May the 1939 Prattonia Board rest in peace . . . The Board is dead . . . Long live the Board!

PRATTONIA BOARD

SINCE early September the Prattonia Board has been working on the volume that is now complete. In the course of this time many complications arose whose solution required expert assistance.

The Prattonia Board takes this opportunity to thank . . . the Faculty Advisers for their patience and tolerance while aiding us in our numerous difficulties . . . Mr. Civardi for invaluable assistance rendered to the Photo Staff . . . the School Secretaries for contacts with and information concerning the various schools . . . the Library School Staff for allowing the Board office space in the Library . . . Betty Roraback for her arrangement of the Engravers exhibit for the Intimate Gallery . . . Mort Stambaugh for his assistance with the Athletic copy . . . the many contributors of art and photo copy whose works grace the pages following . . . the Prattonia Representatives for salesmanship which makes possible the financial success of the undertaking . . . all of our friends who have assisted us in any way.

We also wish to express our appreciation of the cooperation of the business concerns which dealt with the 1939 Prattonia . . .

THIS is an acknowledgement of thanks to the Prattonia Class Representatives who have made this book possible. Without their untiring efforts the weeks of work of the Prattonia Board would have resulted in nothing. It was these representatives who inspired a worthwhile confidence of the student publication in their class. We sincerely hope that when the time comes the representatives will be able to sell themselves with the success that they have sold Prattonia.

We regret that due to unavoidable circumstances the following representatives were unable to appear in the above picture: Bennett, McKay, Schmitt, Jolly, Pope, Wheatley, Jenks, Lee, Frengreb, Angstadt, O'Brien, Woollen, Varvaro, Trum, Cohen, Browne, Romaine, Draper, Cuddeback, Cucci, Killingner and Resser.

STUDENT COUNCIL

THE STUDENT COUNCIL is different in many respects from any other organization in Pratt Institute. Not only does it's charter designate that all classes of all schools in the Institute be represented, it also has the distinction of drawing it's members not from a group of people who maintain a common interest and desire to become members, but rather the results of student choice of their individual class leaders. With no great limit set upon it's actions its activities are determined and measured only by the energy and the initiative and the perspicacity of its members.

Perhaps the greatest social event during the year was the Senior Prom held at the Waldorf-Astoria in the early spring. Not only was it a social success, but final financial reports rated it far and beyond any previous promenades in financial returns.

As yet incomplete are the "Mascot Contest" managed by Bill Yanarella, to determine a fitting symbol for the Institute; an all-Institute Field Day under the direction of Walter Chanas; and a new Awards system developed by James Guida, which will give due recognition to all those whose activities at the Institute have been outstanding.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The usual Tuesday afternoon dances were held during the year. Robert White and a committee composed of members of each school stressed publicity and stunts to attract the student eye, participation and price of admission. The idea of raising funds for a swimming pool was taken down from the shelves and after five years of inactivity it afforded Frank Carlson and his committee the opportunity of giving the students one of the best afternoons of fun this year. Old fashioned movies were shown and the project netted a profit close to $100.

The 1938-39 Student Council lays claim to having more energy and more initiative than any previous Council. The most important of its many achievements was the resolution proposed to the Trustees of the Institute known as the "Student Activities Fee." The direct purpose of this plan was to finance, by means of a tuition fee, the various extra-curricular activities of the Institute. To date official confirmation has not been bestowed upon this the most important piece of Student work in the history of Pratt Institute. Should it go into effect next year it means the assured financial security of all extra-curricular activities, increased student participation in them with a resulting increase in school spirit at Pratt. Should it not be ratified the fact remains that it has been brought to the attention of the student body and leaves the next Council a basis on which to work and build. Work of the Student Activities Fee" committee is appreciated with special mention of Henry Oehrig, committee chairman for his valuable cooperation.

The Council wishes to express its thanks to its president, Robert Nadeau for his indefatigable interest and wise decisions in the works of the Council. To the remaining officers and committees who worked diligently and well in the interests of the Council and school at large our sincere thanks. Best of luck to the student body for the year 1939-40 and the hope that they will continue to offer loyal support to their Student Council.

SCHOOL OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

THE program of this School has been developed upon two basic objectives which have contributed definitely toward its ever increasing success.

The first calls for a continuously changing program that synchronizes with the best contemporary professional practices. This is possible of realization only when the faculty and student body work together in terms of the business and art activities prevalent in the commercial and industrial worlds. To support this program a corps of instructors has been secured who are themselves leaders in the various professional art fields. Under their direction the students develop an attitude of seriousness and application resulting in a wholesome professional atmosphere. At the conclusion of three years of such a program of study the graduate finds he is in the happy situation of having no gap to bridge between his art training and the workaday world.

The second objective, even more difficult to realize than the first, yet predicated upon it, maintains that the educational intent of the Art School is fully realized only when all its outgoing graduates are employed in the professional field for which they trained. In addition the School actively participates in the advance of its alumni to their maximum capacity service.

ADVERTISING DESIGN IIIA

STEP right up, folks—It's the heyday for the most stupendous event of the year, as the finest talent ever possessed by Pratt Institute passes the portals of antiquity into the future of worlds to conquer. Maintaining magnificent control of this high-pressured maelstrom of genius is the lean, lanky leader Bruce Anderson, ably assisted by Vice-President, Herb Dye and Secretary-Treasurer, Elayne Heller.

Sergeant Ajotian's peppy war stories, you may be sure, have a permanent place in our tremendous craniums, as has William "Bull-fighter" Longyears, probs, pricks, and competitions. "And don't (but of course, you won't) forget the Ten Commandments"—quote Leonard—unquote. Incidentally, if your eyelevel is up here, why pray tell, do you put your point of vision way down here? Put it where it belongs and follow your proper shades and shadows, and Mr. Lawson's rendering recruits will blossom forth with dazzling delineations. Hold it! The Tuesday duet by Wee Willie Rivchin and young Mr. Young is a Water-color class unfinished symphony in two keys. Space! Ether! Vacuum! The four comes after the third—if you can find it; provided you go the longest way around because it is the shortest way home, and you'll get there much faster. After this, should we mention Mr. Benrimo?—or has he already been subtly mentioned. Getting back to earth and some beautiful forms and letters, take it "slow and easy" is Mr. Hayne's advice. But we can do that when we get out.

ADVERTISING DESIGN IIIB

THE graduating class in Advertising Design of June 1939 bids farewell to Pratt Institute. With this farewell the panorama of our three years of study unfolds before us. Thru hard work we have developed ourselves so that we will be able to cope with the world and its problems. No longer can we be shielded by the knowledge and foresight, the tolerance and understanding of our parents and teachers. True, we were once a group of unpredictable youngsters but since then we have formed a never to be forgotten friendship which in future years will be cherished as a memory of our school days.

Some of us will attain the heights of our ambitions, the brilliant future in Art and all its phases that was so ibued in us when we entered Prat — certainly it is true that whether we surpass our fondest hopes and aspirations or have success in moderation — none of these things could have been accomplished without the friendly patient advice and guidance of our instructors.

It is with nostalgia that we part today. Many of us will never meet again but we will never forget the years of our formation — when our talents were brought out, our errors corrected and our careers begun. In retrospect we will always be grateful for the opportunity we had at Pratt.

ADVERTISING DESIGN IIIX

WE are the class of IIIX, a conglomeration of would-be artists with our respective qualifications of temperament, creativeness, and conceit (barring all Bohemian qualities, of course).

With all due modesty, we have finally realized that we represent the artists of tomorrow, the geni of the future. Either that or we may clutter up some W.P.A. unit.

But to return to sanity and the serious angle—with the possible exceptions of a few glamour boys and gals, our crowd is very conscientious and serious-minded, believe it or not (it's possible, you know). This state of mind should be attributed to our talented tutors. They are responsible for our constant stride which lately seems promising (promising us very little sleep). The only flaw in our present course, is the oncoming of spring which has thrown the proverbial wrench into the works, so to speak. You know in the spring a young man's fancy turns to thought of homework! With the exception of the temporary stigma, the students are going in places.

As we come into the home stretch we wonder whether the ambitions with which our best friends and critics have inspired us might not be over-shadowed by the wolf at the doorstep—but we have had our fingers crossed and with this weird collection of jitterbugs, barber-shop quartets, piano players and athletes we're sure to come thru. To dear old Pratt goes the honor and the blame—we're on our way.

ARCHITECTURE III

THERE was one man who was as much a part of this history as any member of the class. Without his influence and help the three years would have been long and uninteresting as well as uninspiring.

He was the first person we met when we entered Pratt and was with us most of the first year as an instructor and friend. We use the term friend not as being familiar, but because it can be truly said he was.

When a group of twenty-six fellows, just out of high school, met, on the most part for the first time, there would without a doubt be bound to be some swaying from rules of any institution. For this we were not reprimanded harshly but merely told in a friendly way that we were not doing right. We believe this attitude on his part gained for him more respect from the members of our class, than anything else he might have done. When our work fell behind we were called into his office but there were no threats made; he would listen to our side and then express his opinion.

As we went on into our second year we had less class contact with him but he was still there, ready to help any time he could; always willing to listen. The course, architecture, that we were studying was his life and he wanted it to be ours.

Our class is now smaller in number for many reasons, but if those of us in school, and those who have left, have learned but one thing, to appreciate what we are doing, we have gained a great deal from Mr. Pope.

President
Secretary
Treasurer

WALTER CHANAS
JAMES CROSSEN
ROBERT CARSTAIRS

ARCHITECTURE IV

ALL too soon, these last four years will go down in history as the most important and influential in our young lives. People, places, happenings all move before our eyes in a kaleidoscopic panorama, havin been indelibly etched on our sensitive memories. R. "Terrace" with his eye-stinging plaid jacket, Adelman with his 'snoggog,' and Crossen with beaming Irish smile.

By and large, it is the most congenial and interesting group of men anywhere in Brooklyn. A polar expedition with them would never be dull. Puns and quips no end. . . . The many-sided mind of the architect quickly and adeptly sees the humorous side to any situation and lends a third dimensional charm to what might otherwise not live, but be merely functional.

Speaking of function brings us to the most interesting and most debated problem of the entire four years. The Seniors with the exception of Steinert, who is the leading exponent of the contemporary style, agree that modern architecture has a long way to go before it can be called truly functional and beautiful. Discussions on the matter were held in no quiet, dignified manner. Anyone and everyone join in and proceed to expound his convictions.

As our parting shot, may we offer sincere thanks to the teachers of the past four years; did we enjoy them? Our only answer is Crossen's "why certainly."

FASHION ILLUSTRATION

CHIC, verve, style, and oomph! What's smart, and what isn't? Here's one for the book: we are not three but fifteen (count em smart girls.) Color, dash, quality, design all tied up in a neat bundle of talent, beauty and personality.

And if all this seems too modest, we coyly lower our eyes (shining eager, bright) and that we have had a pretty fine training (professional, candid, constructive, superior) in a good school (the best), and we think (positive, convinced, certain) we are fitted for professional work (we'll lick the world). The year 1939 will long be remembered as the year the great comet came out of Brooklyn, via the Eighth Avenue Subway, to dazzle the world with its meteoric strength, drive, and punch. Not to be confused with the Martian Comet of the same year. This was THE comet . . . Fashion III. A bull's eye!

INDUSTRIAL DESIGN

HUDDLING our "coke" glasses towards the center of the table, we lean back and call for another round. Someone said "remember when?" and out of the general confusion of reminiscence that followed, emerged the history of the 1939 Industrial Design class.

Students answer to the roll please . . . all the clay must be cleaned before going back into the bin . . . airplane wings are built like bridges and Pratt Institute has the best Art School in the country . . . well, it could be functional, but maybe it only creates an illusion. No girls it doesn't excite me enough; try alternating the pansies and the sweet peas . . . they wouldn't bomb the Empire State Building, they'd bomb the water works . . . no, art is skilled objectivity . . . Colonial architecture goes all the way back to the Egyptian pyramids . . . When I was at Carnegie Tech we made models with running water in them . . . not a hundred or a thousand, but ten thousand at a time, that's the market to go after . . . well, try bunching the pansies together . . . "arsheetexshure and schoolschure" . . . no, the spirit of the meat grinder . . . a tenth of a cent isn't much, but multiply it by a million and then you have something . . . I'll call you gentlemen until I know you better . . . try it at F:32 for eight seconds and maybe it will show up . . . has anyone seen the man from R.C.A.? . . . better use that D67 solution, and please take your fingers off that lense . . . another exhibition! . . . what-only ten more weeks of school? . . . on the strength of that we'd better splice the main brace . . . ## INTERIOR DECORATION

II

TO be trite and vain in the first breath is characteristic of the usual run of class histories. In order not to appear too out of place we of Interior Decoration II must begin by listing all of our assets, real or imagined. The liabilities, of which we have none will naturally not be noted.

We entered Pratt in . . . but of course we entered for it is impossible to leave without entering . . . or is it? Having entered Pratt . . . that should be a safe way to put it . . . we began our study of the factors concerning Interior Decoration. Our complete study included a perusal of the theory of Architectural Backgrounds . . . [A section here has been omitted due to the length of the history and limited space. The essence of the material appears in the catalog of the School of Fine and Applied Arts under the heading Courses in Interior Decoration. Ed.]

In looking back on the two years that have just elapsed certain incidents and personal experiences stand out. We will ever remember Mr Moglia's exhibition of fortitude on the many trips . . . fourth dimension a la Benrimo . . . Lee's 11:30 entrance . . . "Art Thru the Ages" . . .

The best of friends must part however, and as we, graduating Decorators, take our leave our word is "Sayonara."

Vice-President VIRGINIA HILL
Secretary EXIE SMITH
Treasurer COURTLAND SPRAGUE

INTERIOR DECORATION III

WE, the class of Interior Decoration III, being of sound (?) mind, and in full possession of our mental capacities do hereby make our last will and testament.

To Pratt Institute, we leave the reputation of being the laziest, most time wasting class on record.

To the forthcoming senior classes we leave the privilege of being a shining example of industry to all underclassmen.

To the future classes, we make the following bequests:

The ability to meet instructors coming UP the stairs to class in the elevator when we are going down early . . . The uncanny ability to appear to be working very hard and producing nothing at all . . . Our bird's-eye view of the Manhattan skyline and Pratt park . . . All our tested and unproven excuses for leaving class early . . . A complete Sherlock Holmes kit to track down our instructors when we need and want them . . .

To all our instructors, we leave a lifelong debt for aiding us not only to become decorators but enlarging our ability to cope with the problems that face us.

Having thus disposed of all our wordly goods, we take our leave of this Institute with the hope of some day returning the debt we have contracted during our short stay there.

Signed and sealed,
Interior Decoration III,
Class of 1939.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION

THIS column is ostensibly designed to present our three years at Pratt in sentimental retrospect so that when in later years, in rummaging behind some streamlined chair we come upon our Pratonian, tears will well up in our eyes and spilling down, will dull our W.P.A. overalls. Despite the fact that Pratt's Perfect Placement Percentage Permits Pigment Pushers Perfect Poise we're still a bit uneasy about leaving the cloistered walls.

Some of the more exacting of us have drawn up plans for approaching potential employers. The following list is borrowed by stealth. Quote—"On entering an office walk briskly up to the desk, smile, if your front teeth are good. He may shake hands—later he may insult you to be sure your right hand is free. Upon invitation or by 'may I sit down?' find a chair quickly and sit. Now the don't: accept that cigarette, he just wants to find out if you'll smoke on the company's time. Don't tie your portfolio with a double sheepshank knot. He wants to know quickly whether you can draw and doesn't care if you were a Boy Scout. Don't stand over his shoulder with an eraser to scrub the drawings clean. Don't whistle unless you are particularly good. As to samples, leave out the 'Keep the Streets Clean' poster of your high school days. On departing don't slam the door in anger or enthusiasm. It will leave a bad impression."

Oh, we've had our high spots, damn proud of them we are, and rightly so. Yet frankly, we are just the humpity-hump thousand 'average class' Pratt has turned out.

President RUTH KILPATRICK
Vice-Pres. HENRIETTA HEFFLER
Sec.-Treas. CONSTANCE GJOBYE

TEACHER TRAINING

It seems but a short time ago that we entered Pratt, hopeful and ambitious. There were then forty-five of us. During that first year, we helped to organize the Pratt Chapter of the Junior Eastern Arts Association. The JEAA has since grown to a highly valued position in the EAA. It has provided many opportunities for developing our leadership and cooperativeness through individual and group activities.

In our second year with our class somewhat smaller, we met many problems from the live beginnings of the JEAA to the dead civilization that gave Al and Sam many sleepless nights—remember the Egyptian model for the Annual Exhibition, Al and Sam?

Our trip to Boston, we remember as the most outstanding activity of our Junior year. Of course we won't forget the Chinese supper either or the appreciation lessons—Elsie Krause's Chinese costume, Evelyn O's fog scene, Faith as a ballerina, Ann's description of the "Lark," Connie as the "breath of spring," Lorraine's "Marching Feet," Henri's color revelations and the outstanding opus of our musician, La Emily. Now that our class is well under way in its duties as Seniors; thoroughly checked in by Jean and with president Ruth keeping ends tied together, we are faced with a difficult problem. With the rest of the department and under the leadership of Evelyn M. we hope to prove that through art, education can become more effective.

ADVERTISING DESIGN IIA

ONCE upon a time—oh, many eons ago
 —we were freshmen, but now, due to a complicated process called matricula-tion we have arrived at the second step in our rise to fame and fortune.

The road has been long and tedious, filled with pitfalls and stuff but aided by your guiding hand, Mr. Grant, we have attained our goal.
 Many hardships we have suffered. Who can forget the agony of Bill Jenks' puns or the effort to pose oneself in a seemingly nonchalant attitude before the omnipresent lens of "Windy" Brown's camera? However, our trek was not without its lighter moments and occasional highlights which spread their beam of cheerfulness, weakened and were gone. Apple-eating Howie
 Behlert made his own fixative, glues and arguments,
 Homer St. John, the lad who showed promise this year, left for the American Academy in Rome. It need not be said that his subtlety of humor will remain unsurpassed.

ADVERTISING DESIGN IIB

"THERE are two ways to become well known at Pratt; either be very good or very bad." The Advertising Design IIB class is well known. While the rumor that we spend more time out of class than we do in is entirely unfounded, we can modestly say, without fear of contradiction, that our classmates do get around.

With a whole year as Pratties under our belts when school opened this fall, we started, in a small way, to literally set the advertising world on fire. Ed Rotheart and Dick Teitelman managed to forego cafe society long enough to stagger home with the first and third prizes in the Brattleboro Theatre poster contest. A few weeks later, Ellie Myers and Bob O'Malley coasted in with first and second places in a poster contest sponsored by the Manhasset Chamber of Commerce.

At the close of the first semester, under the able chairmanship of Scrappy Scala, we held a farewell party for the long enduring II X's at the Women's Club. The party was such a success that we doubt if we'll ever be allowed in the Women's Club again.

ARCHITECTURE II

TO us, Architecture II is gone, gone to the graveyard of memories. There's a headstone to mark its place and it reads: "Architecture II born September 1938, died June 1939." We might say "let it rest in peace," but we won't because we know that henceforth every now and then a fragment of it is going to pop into our minds and be a vague disconcerting reminder of an indelible impression that will follow us forever.

From a background of the more asthetic subjects we were plunged into a cold shower of engineering and construction. The second year of our academic careers was not an easy one. We admit this gives us a feeling of achievement to know that a troublesome era in our metamorphosis has been passed. Let the supercilious scoff, we know that it was a long hard grind.

We have finished our second year. We look back with reluctance not because we dread the spectre of the past but because the architect of tomorrow looks ahead.

ARCHITECTURE I

THE first meeting of the class of 1942 took place on September, 9, 1938 when an eager, though fearful group of fledgling architects embarked on a voyage of discovery to explore the intricacies of Mother Art.

The beginning of the momentous journey was characterized by general blankness of expression on the part of all fellow classmates. But as time went on there eventually came the enlightenment. Our own abilities and creative powers, such as they are, came to the surface. Gradually the tenseness of expectancy vanished; by degrees uncertainties disappeared; and in due time we became oriented to our new life.

Our social activities were launched by the smoker given by the upperclassmen. The next highlight of the year was our first banquet which proved to be one of the most successful on record.

A shadow was cast when we lost our guiding light, Mr. Pope. We have all felt this loss deeply but will strive to carry on the tradition he established.

ILLUSTRATION IIX

LOST in a sea of drawing boards, easels, T squares, and other artist's paraphernalia, we arrived to begin our trials and pleasures a year and a half ago. In a quick review, we realize that our days of confusion were few, for business and social activities soon claimed and located us, each one rapidly adapting himself to the busy student life. Our first year proved profitable in all respects; with the discovery of hidden talents and definite improvement marking our progress. Who ridicules the harmonizing of Monroe and company, or the foolish yet entertaining antics of Edmunds and Getman; the pep of Gold and Baran, the talent in the new gang from Buffalo combined with that of the old crowd? Or the grace and beauty our class brought forth?

We look forward to our remaining year and a half as an opportunity to prove ourselves worthy of the interest and assistance of our instructors. Altho divided, each in his desired field, fast friendships will always bind the IIX together.

ILLUSTRATION IA

EARLY in September, Illustration IA, along with the rest of the freshmen were herded together in the cafeteria for luncheon, at which time we were supposed to get acquainted. A tour of the school followed and not being used to walking marathons a great many of us dropped off along the way! Since then however, we have become accustomed to plodding up the four flights of stairs and doing our bit to wear down the steps. Of course some of us have been fortunate enough to squeeze into the so-called elevator which dates back to the cave man!

Although we were in a bit of a daze for sometime (in fact practically all of the first term) we soon got used to the routine of an Art school (especially after marks).

Illustration IA's class seemed to be a popular place for the "second yearers" to stroll into during rest periods. The hidden talents of our fellow classmates soon came to light: "Vic" Dowd, IA's Bing Crosby — Coney the Whistler and so on and on. Such is life in our class.

ILLUSTRATION IB

WHEN we entered Pratt for the first time last September we were naturally quite curious, somewhat frightened but eager to become acquainted with "our new home." The informal friendliness of Mr. Boudreau's welcoming address set us at our ease, and at the same time strengthened our hopes and ambitions.

We were quite rushed and unorganized for the first two weeks, however slowly but surely we developed more system and method and adjusted ourselves to the new routine. Most of us experienced a great change in pace; we took on more responsibility and applied ourselves to our work with a greater diligence. Our rather hazy impressions of the workings of an "art school" remained unaffirmed for we now dealt with the mechanical rather than the purely aesthetic.

No doubt many of our first impressions have passed with the flow of time, yet these impressions have given way to a more substantial understanding of Pratt. We all agree that Pratt is a school of common sense and diligent study; a place of competent teachers and favorable environment.

RIGHTLY, we may be proud of our community of jovial, ambitious students. One has only to realize the plight of forty new students entering Pratt with their problems, both in art and in habituating themselves to the school, to vouch for our successful progress. We, of course, boast the best class that ever marked paper at this our Alma Mater, and sincerely promise to keep our class in front, to the best of our ability. We have found our fellow students are even better sports and companions than we had hoped they would be, and each of us has acquired thirty-nine new friends during our happy collaboration with one another. In our work, in our instructors and in the school in general we have all found that quality which make a great place of learning.

As for important events, our work seems to grab the spotlight, although we could mention a little "horseplay" between two classmates, both of whom found that scissors cut hair, ties and what have you.

We all seem well satisfied with our progress thus far, and with helpful criticism and encouragement from the faculty, look forward to more successful and happy years at Pratt and in the world.

WE are the greenhorns. . . . Since our entrance in February we have learned only to appreciate the fact that Art (with a capital A) is not a simple or shallow field to follow. While our store of knowledge relative to school work has not been increased by a quantity to large to measure, our knowledge of the social end of the whole business has been bolstered by an amount incalculable.

Ours has been a happy group from the beginning. Our earnest interest in our work combined with this cheerful mental attitude is producing a satisfying reward; work well done. Deserved credit however should not be withheld from our teachers, thru whose guidance we survived the first chaotic days.

In our few short months Pratt has shown us that the requisites of artistic success demand sincere effort and adaptation, but also we have seen the results others have obtained using the same formula. It is with one eye to our own work and the other to the work of the higher classes that we plug on.

INDUSTRIAL DESIGN II

INDUSTRIAL DESIGN II has lived but for one year. Out of the wealth of his memories of that short period spent in the quiet shadows of the Grand Avenue "El," we gather these few to preserve.

His thoughts were often given to observations, excerpts of which are condensed in the following sentences. Many things have disheartened him, getting back to the grind after vacation, the piling up of work with ensuing sleepless nights, exams, History of Art notebooks and perennial debates of White and Slutsky.

He recalls the periodic disappearances from class of Betty and Jasmine the annual midnight excursion of Andrews and White to the Connecticut wilds, Goschos upholding the honor of Queens, Millenky's discourse on labor and Kline's extreme forwardness in answering the phone.

Among the pleasant recollections, was the cracker barrel wit of Bower and Heylmun, Hollowell's Bohemian dress, Chesterly's professional mien and that favorable criticism which came but once a year.

INDUSTRIAL DESIGN I

SEPTEMBER, 1938. A small group of frosh gather and plunge immediately into a noisy argument. Quite typical of the Industrial Designers, isn't it?

October, November and finally, December. The class is pervaded by the holiday atmosphere and is imbued with the spirit of celebration. Efficient at organization, having elected officers and built up a solvent treasury, the group had little trouble in entertaining themselves at the Women's Club. From the scenes including an ex-navy man washing dishes in an apron to a German girl dancing with a Canadian boy, it can be seen that a remarkable and cosmopolitan spirit prevailed.

Holiday past, Industrial Design I found themselves facing their work and each other with greater equanimity and conderatio. Sincere friendship grew from previous interest. The quieter members asserted their deeper qualities. Consideration and interest were mutually and more ardently exchanged between student and teacher.

Now that relative worth and value are known, the class will live and enjoy itself for two more years. The class will endeavor to repay its debts to the Institution.

INTERIOR DECORATION I

NINE months and seven days ago, twenty-seven aspirants brought forth in this school a new class, conceived in hope and dedicated to the proposition that we must succeed. Now, we are engaged in a great test, judging whether this class or any class can long endure.

Pratt Institute, we have enjoyed this happy year we have spent with your brilliant and unselfish faculty. We came here because of the superior training we are being given and humbly hope that we will be able to maintain the reputation established by our predecessors. Though we realize that to follow in the footsteps of those who have gone before will not be easy, we believe that we will more than make the grade.

May the coming year find us all back again in your halls and may we fulfill your high ideals.

PICTORIAL ILLUSTRATION II

IN giving an account of the class for this year we are beset by many difficulties. So many sensitive, abstract and profound individuals have been brought to light. (Genii in their formative period as it were.)

The most outstanding group in this class is a cult of jitterbugs, who, under the able leadership of Keyser and Hoagland, argue violently about the relative merits of swing bands, assuming a rich blue complexion in the process. In direct contrast there is a smaller sect who devote their lives to good music. And when they feel enterprising, improvise, with Miss Phillips singing a very piercing soprano, Perkins singing a dubious tenor and Guthrie a raucous basso profundo.

The intellectuals of the class are lead by Kovalenko and Haggland. These profound minds gaze wistfully into space dreaming of the lands to be conquered by toil and perserverance.

In spite of all these various and sundry procedures the class, we know, has one thing in common, and that is to leave unsullied an indelible footprint in the sands of time and a renowned record in the annals of Pratt Institute.

TEACHER TRAINING III

It seems regrettable that a certain quality of zestful living that distinguished our freshman year, and made us very happy . . . in an abnoxious sort of a way, is fast disappearing from our makeup. We hoped that our junior year would find us not without the clear eyed dignity of the teacher, yet still lit with the light of Flaming Youth. Alas! we are dignified but no longer lit.

This is not to imply that the joys of "Good Clean Fun" have passed entirely from our experience, for this is not the case. We still love to indulge in occasional snatches of song, paced by Ann Hovey, Sarah Jane DiGate, Evelyn Bristol, the Hot Swing Trio, but the tune has changed. The lusty, pagan vigor of "There was an old man who had an old sow, Ow, Ow, Hi diddle Ow . . ." has given away to the sentimental nothingness of "She promised to meet me when the clock struck seventeen . . ."

We do not complain about this state of affairs. We who mold the character of America must not be jitter-bugs. We merely make note.

TEACHER TRAINING II

NOW, we are two years old. Our group is small but choice, or so our teachers tell us. We have learned to correlate, too, so that makes life easier.

Our class celebrity list is headed by our able president, Evelyn Rensing . . . yes, a woman. The boys in T.T. don't have a chance in class elections.

We have Dorothy Montross, who uses ox-carts to bring her note books to class, Jack Pagliuco, who wears crutches every Monday after playing football on Sunday, and Nancy Hagen, who always manages to say the right word at the wrong moment.

Our two Canadians, one the calm Ellen Ross, and the other the not too calm Victor Vigeant, have been divided in half. Vic is in Montreal again. We have two sets of twins, Fran and Fluffy McLaughlin, who were born that way and Henry Ahrens and Irwin Miller who just got that way.

There are the commuters Marge Alfano and Jeanne Kerl, who talk in code and Camilla Motejzik who has changed to the H. S. & A. since her last trip home.

TEACHER TRAINING I

WE are "The Thinkers". Not cold pieces of statuary, all similar reproductions of an original model, but active seekers recast in many sized molds and of different materials gathered from limitless sources. We have varied interests both within our course and in our extra-curricular activities; but our goal is a general one and our cooperation formed from a sincere desire on the part of the individual to see the whole succeed.

Our one mass contribution to the intelligent progressively minded student has been the Debating Club. In this our aim is the further development of the mind, of poise, of vocabulary and of acquaintance with world affairs.

We have emphasized a greater familiarity with the art centers in New York City. We have experimented with different types of plastic mediums and have started some intensive research work. To summarize, we have tried to gain all that we possibly could from our first term.

"We Thinkers" are progressing; each one of us.

"The word must be spoken that bids you depart . . ."

GODSPEED! Not a farewell, but "success to you". The measure of success you enjoy will, I believe, come only as you truly serve others. Many fields will claim you; a variety of careers will attract — homemaking, teaching, research, business, industry, the professions — in all of which you will be valued, not by how much you know, but rather by the quality and amount of service you can give.

How have we served you, in this School which is dedicated to service? Your capacities for service have been diagnosed and cultivated; your perceptions of ways to serve have been sharpened; your techniques for rendering service have been developed here. Have we also given you the strength of spirit and the will to serve? If we have, we shall have passed on to you the tradition — the very breath — of H S and A.

COSTUME DESIGN

SEPTEMBER, 1937 found us making our way with our newly made friends wrapped up in yards of muslin, slopers, tape measures, and pins. But it wasn't long before we caught on to it all!

With our work under way, we organized ourselves, elected our president, Emily Moeller and our other officers, who have led us so well through our two years at Pratt. Our two big successes, The Junior Jig, headed by Jerry Velsor, and the Artisans dance, showed what we could do in the way of entertainment.

The following September, that was 1938, — we were really Seniors and we started the year with a bang by taking a big part in the Senior Student Sponsor movement, the Hallowe'en party, which we gave for the Juniors and Freshmen. This party was a success due to the effort put forth by the committee heads, Ann Yarshower and Esther Lubowsky. Later there was the Artisans dance and the grand party the Juniors gave us. Many of the girls took active part in the affairs of the Home Economics Club.

The class of '39 is truly proud to be able to say "We were Mr. Howe's last first year and Miss Rock's first last year students." We feel that with just one year under each of you that our acquaintance with you and Pratt has been much too short.

DIETETICS

II

AS we, the class of 1939, thumb thru the pages of the last two years our thoughts linger on many events, both gay and serious, which have punctuated our career. Those first few days in the cafeteria long ago, with their quota of burnt hands and aching feet. Parties, First Aid plays, volleyball victories, and yes . . . work. Then in June of our first year we bade adieu to Mr. Howe, glad of the privilege of knowing him. We came back in the fall a bit more serious, more intent, greatly impressing the faculty with our newly acquired poise and dignity. We felt the responsibility of guiding our Junior sisters over some of the hurdles we had encountered in our first few days at school; to do this the Senior Student Sponsor group was organized. We were greeted on our return by Miss Rock, and enjoyed knowing her both as a director and teacher during the year.

The serious work of the year has been interrupted from time to time by our now justly famous foreign dinners. Those Nutrition playlets . . . remember? The outstanding Punch and Judy show and those field trips . . . weren't they fun? Who will ever forget our comedienne Martha . . . and the time a student asked how figs could be pitted . . . Miss Gosmands lecture on "dates" and that deliciously gay Scavenger Party.

No, these memories are ours to keep. In looking back at this page years from to-day a sad yet happy smile will probably light our faces as we long for "the good old days at Pratt."

DIETETICS III

SINCE we are in the enviable position of considering ourselves pioneers in the development of a new Dietetics III course, perhaps it isn't too difficult to understand the pride we feel in adding a new chapter to it's history. The page shall turn leaving for all to see a record of our eventful days at Pratt Institute.

As time progresses we feel more confident, and are able to see more clearly, the major roles we are so soon to assume. In realizing those possibilities we have tried to play our parts well and hope that our experiences and subsequent suggestions may aid future classes.

Our history would not be complete without proper mention of those who have helped make these days enjoyable and memorable. To our class officers, with special reference to our capable president, Eleanor Smyth, we say thanks for their good deeds. Although we are in truth small in number, our interest in our work and in the activities of the Institute is great, as well as co-operative. To the members of the faculty, we owe a debt that can never be fully repaid nor forgotten.

Although we have completed the first great chapter, we are entering upon a second which, we hope, will finish with the moral: "A tale of real success; we owe it all to Pratt."

DRESSMAKING

LAST September some twenty potential dressmakers entered the corridors of Pratt Institute with every worthwhile intention to hear all, see all and assimilate every bit of information that would aid us in our new careers. As a group we were here to astonish the members of the faculty with our varied knowledge of the art and technique of sewing; and solving the elementary principles of a seam or buttonhole. However in the short course of a week and to our utmost chagrin our very competent instructors tactfully suggested that our methods were to say the least, definitely "unprattish." Then began the slow but interesting process of learning "the way."

During the first month of the term, class officers were elected with gratifying results. Anne Sheehan, our president, has justified our confidence in her as have the remaining officers, during this memorable year in Pratt. Aside from the regular class work we have enjoyed extra-curricular and social activities sponsored by the students during the year. To our teachers for their indefatigability, patience and perseverance we are deeply grateful and from our newly achieved heights of wisdom we extend our heartfelt thanks.

The year has passed all too quickly but we know that memories of Room 253 will remain intact for many years to come. We are now replete with a feeling of self-satisfaction aware that our professional status as full fledged dressmakers may be assumed with confidence and great aplomb. So, world of fashion, beware! We are now ready and willing to prove to you that our year spent at Pratt Institute has not been in vain.

HOMEMAKING

FAITH and hope, perhaps perseverance and presumption, but never despair! With this thought in mind our group of eighteen girls equipped with skillet, sewing bag and budget book, started on its chosen career in September 1938.

With the election of class officers for the year we made our debut to Pratt society, scholastically and socially. As time went on and we advanced in our studies and research we became proficient in the art of making an apple pie and the technique of using a washing machine. French seams and twill weaves lost their mystery. We even reached the point of believing that we could ignore a child in a tantrum, while we maintained a happy home with a well planned lack of income.

The average number of dishes which have been washed and dried during the past eight months has not been calculated. The total might remind us of one of the trials of a trained Homemaker. After such voluntary actions how can we reserve the pleasure of making such remarks as, "working my fingers to the bone . . . and what thanks . . . ?"

We have now concluded our preliminaries. To recover from our housemaids knee, and soothe our dishpan hands will be merely time out. Better homes are soon to be built and Homemakers are always ready, extremely willing and at long last able.

INSTITUTIONAL MANAGEMENT

"HAVE you forgotten so soon?" was being hummed on the lips of the sentimentalists when we danced the light fantastic back to school seeking a higher education and finding our way to the open doors and heart of Pratt Institute. Yellow leaves were thickly falling from the trees in the park across the way. All too soon did we discover the work that loomed before us, some of us to stagger home and weep at what we had wished upon ourselves. With fingers too clumsy and hands far too inexperienced we began our labors in the cafeteria. The memory of that first week when we rushed out at eleven to rest our weary feet and then at eleven-twenty to go back to our ominous duty! The week passed yet none of us became permanently exhausted. Monday came, we started our class work with a bit more dash and enthusiasm; our "easy week" we dubbed it.

Time marched on. We became more expert and actually liked the cafeteria! Our class work was becoming our "hard week". We became cosmopolitans when we went on our foreign dinner jaunts, from chow mein to almond cookies the Chinese dinner we served was a big success. As dainty as a baby's christening dress we bedecked the tea table at "2:20" for a faculty tea. New songs sung on the radio, tendrils of green showing here and there in the park. Spring in the air! Graduation in the air and a new world opening to us, and on each pair of lips that energetic phrase; "We're going places!"

COSTUME DESIGN I

AFTER each little freshman has dropped at least one box of pins and learned that 'grain' isn't just barley, wheats, oats or hay, we may pause for a brief moment and consider our year of learning.

We admit it was rather difficult for anyone to distinguish us from the rest of the "designing women" who are always dashing hither and yon in the Costume Design building. However, we have a few celebrities to whom we point with rare pride, meaning of course Ruth Wessman and Edith Weber; who not only have a thriving business organization but also received recognition in an interview for the Times. Then of course there's Phoebe Zeff, tried and true, and her adventure in the cafeteria icebox with all of the other li'l lamb chops the days she made the punch for the "Junior Jig." The dance was fun and we enjoyed entertaining our Senior Costume Designers—a sort of 'thank you' for the party they gave us in November.

Yes it has been a great year for all of us. Remember the steady stream of dresses for Miss Kinney's inspection complete with a muttered prayer and crossed fingers.

COSTUME DESIGN I

WE have a great deal to look forward to when we return in the fall. A curriculum including English and Economics will add to our full practical sewing and designing course and should prove helpful and informative for future use when we graduate. We can say unanimously, that Pratt has lived up to all our expectations and we will be looking forward eagerly to our second year.

So to all of you; the hectic commuters who are always accusing the Long Island trains of losing their electric power, and the ferries of getting lost in the fog, we bid adieu and hope that the excess energy used to rush in on time to make a class and rush out to make trains, will be put to more relaxing purposes. To you who live within the Ryerson and the chocolate factory vicinity and are by now blandly ignoring the many interesting noises and odors of Brooklyn, we say, "Hurry home!"

Goodbye to Pratt Institute and our fellow students until September!

COSTUME DESIGN II

SHALL we name the most unusual feature of a most unusual class? Of course . . . it's John, the gallant of the Junior C. D.'s. He has dared to trod the halls that have heretofore remained untrempled by masculine feet. With this astounding revelation dare we go on with a precise account of class doings?

We started business for the year by enthusiastically and unanimously electing Rita Slowey president of the class. This Irish lassie has shown herself an ambitious leader and to her and the remaining officers we wish to extend our thanks for helping to make this a happy and memorable year.

As Juniors we enjoyed knowing the Seniors and entering Freshmen with a special welcome to the Dressmakers for whom we gave a party in October. The class as a whole supported and enjoyed the varied school activities; and in March we played hosts to the Seniors at a dance given in their honor.

The past year has ben spent industriously trying to balance the equation of "little time and much work"; but it's been a grand year for all of us and so with a sigh we bid you adieu until September.

DIETETICS I

It has been the rather persistent practice of all previous freshmen Dietetics classes to start their history with a trite: "On a bright and cheery day in September a group of new and rather shy students were greeted cordially on their arrival . . . etc." However we're going to revolutionize the approach to all future class histories by delving right into the activities of our class and the fun we've had learning the ropes to our chosen 'career.' (Could we just say in passing that we were shy and strange, and we were greeted warmly and . . . well?)

It seems so many, many experiences ago that we started on the well trod path to knowledge. We were quite brave about the whole thing, we remember, as the mysteries of bacteriology and apple pies were slowly unfolded before us. Somehow our year of acquired knowledge to our earlier ignorance seems unbelievable and almost funny. Not only did we struggle with the 'fundamentals' of a dietetics course, but also toyed vigorously with our 'cultural' subjects.

DIETETICS I

WITH few exceptions we want to express our gratitude for the opportunity of acquainting ourselves with detailed facts about our course, presented expertly by our instructors who deserve a "thank you" as we speed them on a well earned vacation. Another bit of thangsiving also for the friendliness and inspiration of our director, Miss Rock, and we are looking forward to working with her in our senior year.

Our class seems quite happy in it's present state of work, play and . . . work. Our class officers have shown a willingness and ability to keep us on our toes in all activites, both school and extra-curricular. Didn't we have fun at the Junior-Senior party? To our senior sister dietitians we extend warm thanks for their help and friendliness. We've had an eventful and absorbing year at Pratt Institute and before departing for our summer vacations let's make a wish that our following year will prove as interesting and informative and of course as much fun!

IN this issue of the PRATTONIA, the present administration of the Library School makes its last appearance. Mr. Edward F. Stevens, Librarian since 1910 and Director since 1911, retires from office June 30, and Miss Josephine Adams Rathbone, Vice-Director, retires simultaneously after forty-five years' association with the School. On the first of July, Mr. William W. Shirley, now head of the Science and Technology Reference Room of the Library, will succeed Mr. Stevens as Director, and Miss Agnes Camilla Hansen, at present Instructor in the School, will follow Miss Rathbone as Associate Director.

As editor of the first attempt at a students' annual for Pratt Institute in 1911, the retiring Director commends to future PRATTONIAS the new administration of the Library School."

The paragraph above was written by Mr. Stevens for the 1938 PRATTONIA. Miss Hansen and I feel that we are heirs to the great tradition of Mr. Stevens and Miss Rathbone, and we shall try to follow their example by making the Library School an integral part of the Institute's life and an influence for the advancement of our profession.

IN these times when history is bounding forward in seven league boots, when force is the chief mentor of many nations, and when culture is being threatened by marching men in uniform, libraries and librarians take on a new and more vital significance. With Mr. Shirley and Miss Hansen at its helm, and Miss Sedyn, Miss Waller and Miss Boughton as loyal aides, the Library School, tucked away on the uppermost floor of the Library building, is doing its share in fulfilling the greater responsibility which libraries now face. Whether the course be cataloging, or book selection, or library administration, it is permeated with the feeling that the library is a social institution with strong obligations to the community and to the world at large.

Does this make Library School seem an utterly serious business, devoid of all charm and whimsicality? We hope not, for that would be a false picture. The November reception, the January luncheon, the Spring trip, Tuesday teas, the warm friendships which the smallness of our group makes possible, interesting talks by distinguished people in the library field, are only a few of the pleasures enjoyed by members of the class. Happily it is the faculty's stand that in order to be a fine librarian one must first be a well-rounded individual.

On the whole, the year has been a hard but satisfying one. Work was never lacking, but always it was work which would inevitably lead to new horizons and a broader understanding.

ARTHUR L. COOK

SCHOOL OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

ON behalf of the faculty of the School of Science and Technology, may I extend greetings to our Class of 1939. As graduates, you have received intensive training in engineering fundamentals paralleling, in a somewhat more objective form, the conventional engineering college course.

Because of a longer school year our three-year courses have about ninety per cent of the hour content of a typical college course. Therefore the School is able to give, in its three-year training, practically the equivalent of the technical content of a four-year college course. Our four-year courses, which are about twenty per cent longer than those of representative engineering schools, provide advanced technical study and training in humanistic subjects, particularly in the field of industrial management. Your training in either course should enable you to compete creditably with graduates of other engineering schools.

We who have watched with interest your progress during your years at Pratt Institute will continue to be concerned with your welfare. We are pleased to have you join our alumni, confident that you will maintain the reputation of your Alma Mater as you find your places in the industrial world. Our friendly interest and best wishes go with you as you leave our School.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

THE combination of chemists, electricals, and mechanicals in our first year tended to retard the development of the bond which grows up between Pratt chemists. However, through class and Wohler meetings we were able to become well acquainted with our fellow bottle washers, and our first year chem class became a smooth running organization earning its share of the notable Pratt reputation.

Came the second year. Cement analysis also came but we did a concrete job of handling this problem. The second year produced a collection of interesting expressions, including: "so I took an Indian earl stone"; "It hasn't been did yet"; "You stop me"; "Rugged English"; and "Hey — back to your lathe". The class was united as chemists and some bit of learnin' was acquired; signs of integration no longer made us blink and, in general, all troubles were met and conquered.

Our memories of the third year will always include a mental picture of any of a number of classmates with a balloon rapidly concealing his face only to burst and reveal a surprised expression. Another memory is the story the night watchman told of having seen two ghosts fighting over some ghostly tanning machinery in the far corner of the Chem Engineering Lab one dark midnight.

We mourn the loss of our friend and instructor, Doctor Rogers. Few men have built up such a following of loyal friends as our Doc. We are proud to have known him both as a friend and an adviser. He has been an inspiration. We hope that we can make his efforts in our direction all worth while.

A PRIORI — or, as Mr. Carr puts it — "from the cause to the effect." Many gallons of the proverbial midnight oil were consumed with great cerebral exertion over the study of the electron, "why it does what it does — and why did it do it in the first." We assure you, however, that we are not responsible for the existence of this 'mikros' bit of stuff, but we studied its habits so that we may someday point an unerring and intelligent finger and say, "See that? No? Well, it burns your toast, hacks your chin, starts your car (sometimes), wafts sweet melody and sour comedians to your ears, and goes out (with a click) when you want to be alone with your best girl." With this display of our knotted knowledge we have hopes of someday reaping in the pesos, the bank interest of which will finance a two-by-four duck farm on Long Island.

The process of eking out the habits of this elected electron was rescued from boredom by the well-timed anecdotes of Mr. Hertzler. Remember Bjornson's arguments in Eco class? Dosey's questionable questions? Carlson's extended height? Golla's "Punch" sense of humor? Guida's good nature? Mayer and 'his' World's Fair? Menchuk's sales talk? Moulic's parasitic oscillations? Pegnin's loquacity? Perini's maestro haircut? Thompson's toothpaste ad grin? Walker's puny puns? — Ah yes, too true, too true, but now we know where vaudeville went. And that's where we're going, too.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

THIS you might say, is the usual patter of the worldly wise Seniors. Boring the underclassmen with slightly stale tales that have been hashed and re-hashed, and are now to be re-hashed with renewed intensity. This, yea this, is our only permanent record of thoughts, feelings and stuff to be handed to dear posterity.

We've arrived at the conclusion, with careful deductions you understand, that we have just spent three years. But, may we add, they were some three years! More fun than a feud. Eleven o'clock recesses in the juice lab with lady fingers, crumpets and lace doilies. A dash for the Physics lab after a butt in the court. At the 12:30 watch in front of the Art School, all condescending to F.A.A. slang (scaunch, smooth) and its humor. The whole class at the Paramount a jammin' and a jivin'.

Al "Rabbit" Mangani, official data sheeteer, and "Chic" Jaklitsch traveling around together and being temperamental. Lee Maher with a Prattonia headache and not a B-C in the house. John Burley with morbid propensities and class history trouble. Ed Ryan telling stories that the boys never heard before. "Heaver" Day saying "you know that, Ace" with proper finger movements.

So, here we are on the threshold of somethin' or another. It's sink or swim, or come back for your fourth year. They say knowledge is power. We need it. We're off queeck like a bunny.

ENGINEERING FOURTH YEAR

WELL, fellows, this is our last chance to talk it over. Four years is a long time and four years can teach you more than the catalog shows. It looks humorous now, but the first few times we were together we thought more of how we used to do it in Podunk than how we were going to do it from now on. Once we learned to look ahead and overcome difficulties that were smaller than they appeared, things moved smoothly. At times it was discouraging, but always when things looked darkest the sun came along and made everything gay. It's grand and glorious to be able to say, "Got that problem licked."

It's hard to measure some things because there is nothing valuable enough to use as a comparison. There is little we wouldn't give to live these priceless years over again with them. It's associations, the friendliness and wholesome fun of being with regular fellows, that make the four years so intangibly valuable. Even the old Corliss, and it's incessant tick; the odor of soap in the making and the rumbling of the antiquated "El" carry fond remembrance.

Hold on! What's this coming? Can you beat that! Just what we've been working for — our Degree. Sorry we can't talk it over longer, fellows; but, we must be moving along. Look us up when you get to the top.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING II

THE year began with the class consisting of only Chemists—thank heaven for that. It probably hurt some of our learned teachers to have only Chemists but they seem to have survived the ordeal so far—and so have we.

We have our class sleepers and our class jokesters and can compete with any who try to disprove it. We have not as yet excelled in any of the sports but we do happen to stop some of the more favored teams, we did quite well in touch football this fall; but in basketball and bowling, "we wuz robbed." Now that the winter sports are almost over, with ping-pong, duck pins, and pool just emerging, the other teams had better look out because the Chemists seem to have the knack of winning at these games. Of course, we have our own little games in class of trying to pick the winners of week-end basketball games or the number of hits the Yanks will make, but we are on the rise, so keep an eye on us. What we have not been able to do this year we may be able to accomplish next year and take over both the studies and the opponents as well, so on to the rest of the year.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING I

ON September 14, 1938, a group of young men destined to be known as the Class of 1941 in Industrial Chemical Engineering were heartily welcomed by Dr. Dixon. He gave us worthwhile advice regarding our future work at Pratt and explained the activities of the Student Council and the S. & T. Board. We were encouraged to join in extra-curricular activities.

Our first activity was the election of our class officers. After the election, the officers planned a class budget which was passed by the class. At a later date we also approved a class constitution helping us to become a well organized and friendly group.

We wish to offer our thanks for the Student Council Tuesday afternoon dances and the basketball games which were exciting and enjoyable. To all of our teachers for taking such an interest in us we are grateful.

Although our part in school life has not been spectacular, we Chemical Engineers feel certain that we are going to play an ever more important role in future affairs.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING II

WITH a slight variation, the historic words of Julius Caesar may be made to read: "Veni, Vidi, Victus sum." (I came, I saw, I was conquered.)

Such an attitude would prevail among the members of an ordinary class when confronted with the "Horrible Three", Electricity, Strength of materials and Calculus. However the Electricals II are not an ordinary group of men. Indeed in their class exist veritable wizards, whose intellectual prowess make them outstanding luminaries in the above subjects.

Who but Sol Codispoti would be able to turn in seventy-four Calculus problems at the end of the week when only eight were required? Goetz and Faltin have learned so much Strength, that they are now able to ask questions in the subject "... Jorch, Beegan, Albert and a few others seem to know what a "... long shunted, cumulative wave wound compound generator" is ... maybe.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING I

THE dismal rain which fell last September twelfth didn't by any means dampen the enthusiastic spirit of forty-five students starting their chosen careers. We quickly became accustomed to the atmosphere of Pratt Institute and never hesitated to feel part of it.

The class meetings held for the election of officers and the organization of a budget quickly became history and all eyes turned towards the extra-curricular activities. In athletics, the first sport of the year was touch football. Combined with the second year's men, we made a splendid showing. This was followed by basketball and even though we did lose the first game, we won the second and have good reason to look towards a successful season.

But! Our major interest lies in our work at Pratt. We have all accepted the assignments in a spirit fitting to our sincere desire to become successful engineers.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING II

SEPTEMBER 1937 found what was to be the Mechanical class of 1940 gathered before the portals of Pratt. All wondering if we were going to like college life and, conversely, whether or not college life was going to like us . . . and we soon found out that we had to.

At the first smoker we met the upper classmen and some second year men and were treated like kings. We thought we were the best class ever, until the next day when they took off our white and suede shoes. I guess we needed it because this year we were even more enthusiastic about taking off the shoes of the first year men.

1937-38 passed by in a succession of Lab reports, Math workbooks, and several inspection trips. The more aggressive of the group soon learned to swell the ranks of those who haunt the Art School doors on Ryerson Street. Do female art students really prefer Mechs to artists? Ask any Mech! Elections held at the end of the second term gave us "Matty" Bence, Frank Allman, "Swede" Anderson, and Thomas Stewart as our staff of officers.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING II

Back after vacation we found ourselves with merely three Lab reports a week to write up, besides the Analytic workbook. It must have been possible since we're still here. Do you Section II men remember Metals and Alloys and the charming manner in which the class was conducted?

Memories? You bet. Bud McCanns' infectious grin and unfailing good humor; Cherniachovsky's slow Russian smile, Schmidt's whistle, Thompson's sly quips, "Swede" Anderson's eternal sleepiness, the time that the class left Metals and Alloys sharply at five minutes of, and all the scurrying to get work-books and Lab reports in on time.

Next year we'll be Third year men. Hope our dignity will stand the strain. The second half of this year introduced us to Juice lab and once again to the refining effects of English. Thermodynamics! Did anyone ever find out what Entropy and Enthalpy were?

Well, exams are here again. Hope we'll be back next year. Till then, good luck and cheerio.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING I

I T was a drizzly September morning, that momentous day that marked our entrance into Pratt. Ninety-six strong, we were inexperienced, yes, but all eager to sip from the cup of knowledge. Too soon perhaps did we quench our thirst, what with the Descriptive Geometry problems that were fit for a Ripley "Believe it nor Not" solution, and the different types of Chem problems.

Most of us were green freshmen, and on entering the different shops one could hear the "ohs" and "ahs" of wonderment. Every six weeks we shifted and by the time the first term was over we had all done work in the different shops, Forge, Foundry, and Wood. Some indelible scenes that we encountered: pouring day in the foundry; the stream of white hot molten metal flowing smoothly into the molds of our own making brought forth a certain amount of pride — the forge shop; a group of men, some with sledges, others with tongs, shaping their metal on the anvil in front of the fiery forge,

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING I

The smell of sawdust, and the vibrations and noise of machines remain imprinted in our memories. In each shop we learned something new, something useful, something interesting.

Our basketball team was on the style of Notre Dame's football team. We had a squad of about 30 men and we took cruel delight in scalping the Chem I squad. After a few games, however, they broke the original team up into an "A" and a "B" squad. Both teams did pretty well for themselves.

All in all our first term at Pratt will probably remain longest in our memories. We made our friends and caught on to the school spirit. The work was hard but also interesting. We may have plugged a lot but we had lots of fun attending the basketball games and the dances. When the next semester rolls around we'll still be here and we'll tell you all about the Mechanicals.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

THE Athletic Council, since it was first organized in 1922 with the purpose of acting as a medium through which the student body could express its views and suggestions through their representatives on subjects that concerns athletics,, again closes its books on another year of memorable activities.

Noteworthy of this year's accomplishments in the council body was the revision of the constitution, and the managing of the numerous interclass athletic tournaments. Many suggestions have been made for the spending of the surplus budget money for athletic equipment but due to the lack of time and the need to settle more urgent business the proposals have not materialized. However, we feel sure that in the near future many concrete improvements will be made in the line of athletic facilities. The swimming pool fund is increasing rapidly and the pool shows promise of remodeling. Also, the space south of the Engineering Building has been considered as a possible site for the construction of handball courts to be used for other net games as well as handball.

It has been decided by the Athletic Council to place a plaque in the gymnasium on which will be recorded from year to year the name of the class having the largest number of interclass champions. This move was made to further stimulate more participation in athletics.

Many thanks are to be given to Mr. Charles Pratt, Mr. Wright, Mr. McKillop, Mr. Hostetter, and Mr. Ajootian of the faculty for their aid in advising the council.

William Yanarella, chairman of the Athletic Council, did much toward the fulfillment of these activities with his wholehearted interest and executive ability to bring matters to a desirable close. Congratulations to the Interclass Athletic Managers for their splendid work. May the Councils of the future continue with the happiness and success of the past.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

WITH not one man returning from last year's first five the season's prospects did not look very promising. Under the tutelage of a new coach, Mr. Henry Fink, a fair squad was molded and the team finished the season with seven victories and six losses. Coach Fink, a former Pratt student and one of the best defense men ever to grace our court, performed a remarkable job in building a team from all inexperienced men. Cooper Union - 25 Pratt - 48

Pratt came out from behind to win the game in the second half by 23 points after trailing at the half by a 15-17 score. The boys came out fighting and completely overrode the opposition. The high scorer for Pratt was Johnston with 8 points. St. John's - 64 Pratt - 35

The home team was completely smothered by the Redmen who were unerring with their passes and set shots. The only time Pratt led was in the beginning on a tally by Graham. St. John's readily overcame the deficit and led throughout the game by about double our score. Pratt fought all the way but to no avail. Queen's College - 39 Pratt - 41

Frank Ryan scored from midcourt in the last five seconds of play to give us the game over Queen's College by the margin of 2 points. Horelick sparked our attack with a total of 13 points. The first half ended in a 21-all tie and the game see-sawed back and forth until the final whistle.

Upsala - 45 Pratt - 40

Pratt closed with a final rush that almost won the game but the Jersey team fought them off and hung up two more baskets to clinch the game. Early in the second half Pratt led by 5 points but this was eaten away by the opponents long shots. Horelick led the scoring for us with 15 points but the team missed 12 foul shots that would have made up the difference.

Brooklyn Poly - 8 Pratt - 36

Pratt held Poly scoreless for the first 15 minutes of play and the score at the end of the half was 10-5 in favor of the Finkmen. It was Poly's off night for they missed long shots and lay-ups. Even when a man was free under the basket the tale was no different. In the last half we held them to but three points.

Alumni - 33 Pratt - 43

Last year's Varsity, with the exception of Mardy and Zuraw, plus a number of earlier grads lost to this year's Varsity team who led all the way. The spectators were treated to some of Reiser's spectacular shooting at intervals throughout the game. Pratt led all the way with Woodger making 10 points to lead in the individual scoring.

N. Y. Aggies - 41 Pratt - 57

Johnston and Miller had a fine evening against the zone defense of the Aggies scoring 15 and 14 points respectively. To score, all our team had to do was stand outside the Aggies zone and pop them in. Pratt led throughout the game, the score at the half being 28-23.

N. Y. State Teachers - 32 Pratt - 33

N. Y. State staged a driving finish in the last few minutes of play to almost take the game. They had the score tied but a foul shot by Graham put us one point in the lead. Both teams played equal ball, each making 26 points by set shots and lay-ups, but the State team fouled more.

University of Delaware - 47 Pratt - 36

Pratt, ahead at the end of the first half 20-17, lost the game in the second half by trying a play with which they were not thoroughly familiar. Because of the failure of this play the team became demoralized and its defense fell to pieces. In the second half Delaware scored almost twice as many points as we did. Ryan was high scorer for Pratt with 15 points.

Springfield - 61 Pratt - 41

The Pratt basketweers were not used to the strict refereeing that it encountered in Springfield. This confused the team and the result shows in the score. The team was about evenly clinched in individual scoring with Ryan, Miller, and Falotico chalking up 9 points apiece.

Worcester - 55 Pratt - 35

Here again Pratt met up with the strict refereeing and as a result four of the first five went out of the game on four personal fouls. The score at the half was 17-21. After the substitutes came in our chances of winning became very slim. Falotico with 10 points garnered from five set shots captured individual scoring honors.

Lowell Textile - 21 Pratt - 47

Pratt demonstrated that it could again play winning ball by beating Lowell with a vengeance that made up for its last two defeats. Pratt led 24-12 at the half and considerably increased this margin in the remainder of the game. Ryan captured high honors with 14 points.

Brooklyn Poly - 46 Pratt - 39

Poly got revenge for her early season defeat by whipping Pratt on her home court. She has always been known to be dangerous on her own court and this was clearly illustrated by the outcome. Poly got off to a good start and never relinquished her lead. We were never closer than five points. Johnston again was high scorer for us with 13 points.

THE 1938 Varsity Baseball Team saw one of the most successful seasons that a Pratt team has had for some time. The team compiled an enviable record of six victories in nine games over a group of strong opponents.

The Pratt nine got off to a fine start by taking the measure of New York State Teachers College by 13-5 score. Featuring this game was the hitting power of the team. As an example, in the third inning four runs on four hits were made.

Cathedral College was shut out by a score of 9 to 0. Behind beautiful pitching by "Lefty" Kinzler the team knocked out a total of thirteen hits.

Drew University showed too much power and speed for our boys as they won by a score of 11 to 4. However, the score does not indicate the severe closeness of the playing.

The next game was with the Staten Island Division of Manhattan College. This was a hitting field day for the McKillopmen who collected twenty runs on twenty-three hits. Home runs hit by Falotico, Holzmacher, and Keyser were the features of the day's play.

The next two games made the season outlook a little dull when Stevens Institute shut us out 3 to 0 and Panzer took us by a count of 8 to 4. To our six hits the Panzer team collected twelve that included two home runs.

For the next two games the team travelled upstate where they again beat the Teachers College by a score of 2 to 1. Buoyed up by the fact that they could still play winning ball after losing two straight they proceeded to whip Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute of Troy by a score of 12 to 5. They outhit R. P. I. by twelve to seven.

The final game of the season saw Pratt greet the Alumni on Alumni Day and then proceed to inflict a defeat on them. The score was 15 to 6.

Lost to the team by graduation were Holzmacher, Barbieri, Jaklitsch, and Schlisinger. However, the 1939 season is bright indeed for a group of fine men are again ready to take the field. They are Kinzler and Pierce, pitchers; Field and Steeley, catchers; Captain-elect Falotico, Gregoritsch, Shargas, Bence, Johnston, and Marck, infielders; and Keyser, Ryan, and Michalszyn, outfielders.

Following is the season's record for 1938:—

	Pratt	Opponents
New York State Teachers	13	5
Cathedral College	9	0
Drew University	4	11
Manhattan (Staten Island)	20	4
Stevens Institute	0	3
Panzer College	8	4
New York State Teachers	2	1
R. P. I.	12	5
Alumni	15	6

 Second row: Gregoritsch, Michalszyan, Johnston, Marck, Bonner,
 First row: Sharnas, Field, Schlesinger, Barbieri, Helmsacher, Jaklinski.

VARSITY BASEBALL

CHEERLEADING

Captain

AL MERCIER

The rah-rah squad hits its stride this year with new yells and four new cheerleaders. Al Mercier has brought back cheerleading which had fallen into more or less of a rut. It's Varsity sport again. Under his capable direction the group introduced several new cheers and revised some of the old ones.

Last year, for the first time, varsity letters were awarded to the three girl cheerleaders. Next year, with women participating in major sports, the gals will claim more letters.

Pat Dreher and Al Mercier, eased the two Rustys, Harriette, and "Streamline" into the gentle art of tonsil wrecking.

"Streamline" had a mighty pair of lungs and soon discarded the megaphone. The two Rustys insisted on mixing up Boom Whistle. Pat always muttered into the large megaphone, because it seemed more professional. Aside from making spectacles of themselves, the cheerleaders enjoyed encouraging student vocalizations. So, it's thanks to you students who cooperated!

ALMA MATER

Towering far above her neighbors,
Shop and mart and hall,
Stands the home of student-laborers,
Noblest of them all!

At each meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

In our hearts her precepts linger,
Her example gleams,
Showing with unerring finger
Guerdon of our dreams.

At our meeting, for our greeting,
Bring her noble fruit.
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

Round the world the chain extending
Each to other binds,
All her honored name defending,
Hearts and hands and minds.

At our meeting, give her greeting,
Raise the proud salute!
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, Pratt Institute!

NOON HOUR TOUCH FOOTBALL

Closely allied with the parent league is noon-hour touch football, a newcomer to the fold of interclass sports. All commuters who found it impossible to participate in a sport after school were invited to play. A large turnout of seventy-eight men and the doubtfulness of the outcome of the competition made the season a huge success. The Illustration I-a class team came out the victor only because of their slightly better co-operation and teamwork. All the teams showed a wealth of enthusiasm, speed, and color on the field. Pacing the team were Bald, Check, and Garing with Dowd, Brandt, and Denovan adding the needed spark in the supporting role. The team holds victories over the Chemists, Seniors, Electricals, and Mechanicals. The only setback they suffered was at the hands of the Mechanicals, champions of the four o'clock league and classmates of a team they had already beaten. Due to the laras success of this sport it is keenly hoped that it will be continued in future years.

TOUCH FOOTBALL

Touch football, the most popular of the fall interclass sports, produced a real champion in the Mechanicals. It was the second successive year that the Mechanicals have gone undefeated. The only real opposition offered the Mechs this year were the Architects. Up until the afternoon of the last game both teams were undefeated. Many touchdowns were scored through the accurate passing of Fajolico and the receiving of Greene and Jaklitsch. Others on the team supporting these three were Wilcox, Morsell, Stambaugh, Katz, Bowman, Braccia, Steele, and Mangani. The team owes much of its success to its manager, Tony Jonassen, and to the fine support of the class. In the final playoffs for the school championship the Mechanicals were again victorious. They severely whipped the Illustration I-a team by a score of 12 to 6. The Mechanicals have high hopes for the coming year as a good part of the team was composed of first and second year men.

SOCCKER

Soccer observed a tradition at Pratt by opening the season of interclass sports. Led by Viejo and Rivera, the Seniors swept through an undefeated season. The first game of the season saw the Artsmen downed in a very exciting game on scores by Rivera and Viejo. After winning by forfeit from the Chemicals they went out to beat the Electricals in a thrilling contest. Another forfeit, this one by the Architects added to their record. In the final game of the season the previously unbeaten Mechanicals gave the Seniors the toughest battle of the season losing out by but one goal. Throughout the entire season the team played as one smoothly working mechanical unit. Great credit is given to Goalie Holoubek who played the net like a veteran. Sirotak and Wheatly, newcomers to the game, played marvelous ball backing up the line. It is with great regret that we see the Seniors graduate because they produced one of the finest soccer teams that Pratt has witnessed in recent years.

BASKETBALL

This year saw one of the most successful seasons for interclass basketball for quite some time. There was such a large entry of teams before the season started that the league had to be split into upperclass and freshman groups. The winners in each group will meet for the school championship. At the present writing it appears that the Chem 1 and the Mech 3 will meet in the finals. The Mech 3 team, last year's champs shown in the picture, are the only undefeated team in the league. They are also the highest scoring team in either division. The honor of being high scorer for the season seems destined to go to Kisel, flashy Mech 3 star. He has a small advantage over his nearest competitor and still has one more game to play. A large amount of credit for this season should fall to Carl Blockstedt, interclass manager. He, more than any other individual, insured the season's success.

BOXING

Boxing is an innovation in interclass sports. Last year a ring was built and equipment purchased. So many took advantage of this opportunity that this year a student coach was hired for instruction. Bill Von Helmolt, who has quite a bit of experience in the art of self-defense, may be given credit for all that the boys have learned. Footwork, jabbing, covering-up, have all been gone into with detail. As this article is written the class tournament has just started with five teams entered, each one representing a course. There are four weight classes, distributed so that there will be no poor matching of opponents. Indications from Coach Von Helmolt, who is also interclass manager, point to the Artsmen who have a very strong team as the winners, but none of the other teams can be counted out of the race yet. Every match draws a large number of spectators that really enter into the spirit of the ring by cheering and kibitzing.

SWIMMING

Last swimming season saw the Mechanicals capture high honors in the interclass swimming tournament. This was the second year in a row that the Mechs have won and from the showing to date it appears that the series of championships will be stretched to three years. As this is written they already have a record of two victories in two starts. However, right on their heels are the swimmers from the other classes competing, promising to make a fight of it to the finish. The usual events were indulged in with the relay enjoying the limelight because of its higher compensation for winning. This season under the leadership of Alfred Benson, a student coach, life saving classes were continued. Many students took advantage of this fine opportunity to further their all around education. By the interest shown in the sport and the favorable notice paid to it by the Athletic Council it is hoped that in the near future a new pool will be built and interclass swimming raised to a higher pinnacle than it now enjoys.

BIG PINS

After reigning supreme for six successive years in the Big Pin Tournament, the Mechanicals were forced to relinquish their championship to the 1939 edition of the Senior bowling team. However, this was no disgrace because on the Senior team were two excellent bowlers from the former Mechanical team. The Seniors moved to the top by winning their first match from the Electricals and never lost this position through the course of the entire season. In rolling up a fine average of 867 with 26 victories and 4 defeats, the Seniors won the tournament by 8 full games, finishing the season with a run of 19 victories. The strength of the team is shown by the fact that amber man Dave Popper garnered high individual scoring honors and the remainder of the team were among the first eleven men in the league. To show their strength, even though this season had passed, these men were winning "out-of-season" games.

DUCK PINS

As this article is written the duck pin season is just opening. Teams from all of the courses have been entered and promise of a hard struggle for the championship is in sight. To give more men a chance to participate in intersport, the Athletic Association ruled that big pin bowlers could not compete in the duck pin tournament. Up to date this seems to have had little effect on the quality of the bowlers as many high scores have been turned in. It is quite a feat to get a strike or even win a spare with the rubber ducks. The team that has shown up the best so far is the Mechanicals with seven victories in nine games. However, none of the other teams may be counted out, for the season is still young. The Architects, last years champs are again back with a strong team. It is really worth the time on the day of a match to observe any of the teams in action.

POOL

Action, aside from the usual is destined to take place at the second floor pool table in the Men's Club as the interclass pool tournament opens. Throughout the school year hordes of students are seen crowding the table and enjoying the game amid a great deal of good-natured bantering from the spectators. Back from last year is "Jake" Jaklitsch and his teammates from the Mechanical class. Besides winning the individual tournament for the past two years "Jake" has led his class team to a two year school championship. Unless a fine crop of cue wielders have entered the first year it does not seem as though much competition will be offered and the championship will again go to the Mechanicals. However, interclass manager Ed Sirotak has arranged a schedule that any team will find difficult to play out. Final victory is a long way off.

PING PONG

Last year was the first year that interclass ping pong was indulged in. Due to its large success it is again included in the list of interclass sports. Any afternoon in the week followers of the game may be seen exerting themselves over a little white pellet. However, it takes long hours of practice to possess a repertoire of serves, drives, and chops that is needed to have a chance in interclass competition. Since so many teams signified their intention to participate, Interclass Manager Bozzella has split them into two groups with two divisions in each group. The winners in each division will play each other and then these winners will meet for the school championship. At the present writing only a few matches have been played and it is too early to even try to select a winner. Last year's champs, the Artsmen, have again come along with a good team but it can be guaranteed that they will be offered plenty of competition before the season is complete.

HARDBALL

Last year the Chemist's baseball team won the pennant for the second year in a row. However, they had a long and hard schedule to play out before finally emerging victorious. Every team in the league put up an excellent fight and it took all the ability Nichols, Olsen, D'Acostino and company could muster to finally subdue them. With spring just around the corner, the Pratt bowl will soon be in shape for another campaign. The power of the Chemists seems to be broken as about half the team graduated or are now Seniors. The other teams in the circuit boast about the same personnel. To judge the outcome of a titanic struggle such as this would be foolhardy, so, may the best team win.

SOFTBALL

Just as it swept the rest of the country, softball has taken Pratt by storm. So many students participated last year that it is again on the roster of interclass sports. Its popularity is well warranted because very little equipment is needed and it is so enjoyable to play. A remarkable brand of ball was played throughout the season. Following a long schedule last year, the Artsmen had the honor of becoming the first school champions after defeating the Mechanicals in the playoffs. Both teams had swept the field without a defeat before their meeting. Outstanding on the Artsmen team were Almgren and Eckley who were helped along by a fine supporting cast. As it is still too early for the season to get underway, teams have not yet been selected. However, by the interest shown, indications point to another banner year.

HANDBALL

This year was the second in which interclass handball was played. Following last year's success many students have been practicing and pointing toward the interclass tournament. Last year, through the efforts of the Athletic Council two fine handball courts were constructed in the building adjacent to the gym and they have since been greatly improved. This alone is an inducement to many to play. With the aid of class representatives, interclass manager John Holoubeck has devised a grueling schedule for all of the teams entered. Last year the Mechanicals were the victors. They have the same team this year but other entries shape up just as strong, if not stronger due to the discovery and training of excellent recruits. It is for this reason that 1939 points to a banner handball season at Pratt.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

As compared with times of long ago, or perhaps not quite so long ago, girls' athletics have increased in number and variety and in their general characteristics. Today, girls enjoy engaging in an exciting fast game of volleyball, basketball or hockey. At one time these active games were considered too rough for the fairer sex. Early classes of physical training were confined solely to exercises that were assuringly careful not to harm the sweet young things appealing fragility.

The Department of Physical Education at Pratt today has widened its athletic boundaries and current curriculum so that now sports once participated in only by men are offered to the women students. Each healthy, energetic Pratt girl welcomes spring or fall with open arms for with these seasons comes outdoor sports. These include hockey, volleyball, soft ball and many others. Also there is swimming complete with its swimming team that the girls may choose in preference to any one of the ball games. At the end of each season the various teams compete in well balanced matches to decide which school is to claim the championship of the year.

When winter once again brings its cold and snow and ice the girls meet indoors to expend their energies in learning tap dancing, modern dancing, basketball, fencing and many other grace developing sports enjoyed by the modern girl. Here again there is a choice when the girls may select special classes in place of regular gymnasium work. In the spring the members of each of the gym clubs and classes present an exhibition open to visitors and students alike to show the advancement and activities of the previous year.

VOLLEYBALL

Continues to be one of the favorite sports with the favorite members of the student body. It serves its purpose well in getting the girls in trim for the more strenuous spring sports to follow. The Tournaments between the Art School and the members of the H. S. & A. are always lively and full of keen competition making them interesting both to those who are playing and those who are the spectators.

FENCING

Becomes more and more popular as each new year rolls round. It does wonders for the girls especially in their efforts to gain poise, ease and grace of movement. This is one of the few sports that can be carried on in later years. The Fencing Club demonstration at the annual spring gymnastic exhibition is always a welcome feature.

GENERAL GYMNASTICS

Getting right down to business is one of the characteristics of the Pratt women when working off surplus avoirdupois. Many a young damsel enrolled in these courses has failed and lost heart rather than weight in noble effort. The larger part of the students however enjoy and look forward to the hours in the gym.

TAP CLUB

Although some tap instruction is given in the regular gym classes, this club meets with general approval among the members of the student body. Tap is excellent in that it tends to give one a sense of rhythm and balance. It may even help some in their social dancing. The tap club tends to provide the colorful note needed in the annual spring exhibition.

SOCIETIES

ARTSMEN

ELWIN TICKNER
STEPHEN KOVAC
GLENN DAVIE
ROBERT BRAGG

The year 1939 marked the 15th Anniversary of the founding of the Artsmen by Honorary President William Longyear. One of the first acts was the adoption of an official Artsmen pin and emblem design received in a competition won by Joseph Halpert. With this bit of business completed, the social committees swung into action. The result? Our very successful "Swing Cotillion", with the presentation of Anita Holmen as the "Senior Queen of the Art Schools." The energetic team of Wagner and Andrews were responsible for the styling of this unique affair. Then the Annual Christmas Party with the Paletters and Architects, with much merriment over the antics of Bill "Santa Claus" Bossert.

A versatile array of guest speakers presented in coordination with exhibits of their works was headed by Norman Rockwell, and Art Director Stuart Campbell and included other men who are tops in their fields of Art.

Our sincere thanks to the representatives and members for their excellent support, and to the new "cabinet" best wishes for a big year in 1939-40.

JUNIOR EASTERN ARTS ASSOCIATION

The Junior Eastern Arts Association is still an infant, but already it has proved that it can fulfill its two main purposes. It provides, through the Eastern Arts Association, a contact with professional and experienced teachers which is so valuable to student-teachers, and it furnishes an opportunity to organize an association, conduct meetings, handle financial, business, and social matters and meet students from other schools. All these things are part of an educator's life and doing them at school now, should make J. E. A. members more efficient as teachers.

Through all the meetings of the J. E. A., one idea is constantly present. Teaching is a profession, students who are training for teaching realize that they are to be specialists in education or costume design. The importance of specialization, however, cannot be allowed to overwhelm the teacher as a person with many interests that reach into all fields. The Junior Eastern Arts Association attempts to foster present interests and create new ones so that student-teachers will become better teachers.

ARCHITECTS

This year will be indelibly stamped in the history of the Architectural school by the passing of our Supervisor, Mr. Lester B. Paine. It has been through the combined efforts of Mr. Frank O. Price, Mr. Lyle Boulware, and Mr. James C. Boudreau that the terrific bridge in this organization has been paved. However, surprising results are being obtained from this ever working group and the Architects are showing real signs of life.

This year's banquet and dance were scheduled in addition to the dinner and dance held with the combined efforts of the Palettees and the Artsmen. The first banquet which honored Mr. Frederick Woodbridge, Chairman of the Membership Committee of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Mr. Frank Rogers, builder of the Chrysler Building, and Mr. Donald Dohner, Supervisor of the Department of Industrial Design, was a success in every respect. Each of these men will long be remembered for their timely talks on contemporary conditions in the architectural field.

PALETTEERS

President BETTY RORABACK
Vice-President DOLLY LOVENTHAL

With the proverbial bang we began and ended a very successful season.

The high point of the year, the annual banquet, was made notable by our guest speaker, the well known illustrator, Earl Oliver Hurst. We were proud to sponsor an exhibition of his work. The Palettees also presented the Cassandre-Kauffer show. We think the introduction of card parties was a very happy thought and hope it will be continued. As usual, ingenuity and care in dressing the Christmas dolls amazed our practical and sophisticated friends.

We enjoyed participating in the very successful Christmas Party. Santa Claus stole the show. Long may he reign,—dear?

The Howdy Dance in the fall, a tea in the spring helped to welcome those poor lost souls—the frosh.

And, now with the supper-dance in the offing we brush our hands proudly. Orchids to Miss Everest and the representatives who gave us such fine assistance.

HS&A STUDENT BOARD

It has always been the aim of the HS&A Student Board to foster a cooperative school spirit among the various sections of which it is composed. In this way a unit is formed and standards are set for all to follow. The board itself is composed of the Director of the HS&A school, Supervisors of the various departments and class and club officers. Meetings are held monthly and at this time minutes of the previous meeting are read and results of previous actions are reported. The meetings are held with a view toward the solution of student and faculty problems, resulting in discussions, suggestions and motions according to parliamentary procedure. Every member has the power to vote representing the beliefs of his classes. An attempt was made to set some scholastic standard for all class and club officers to achieve and keep, to hold office. The motion was discussed at the Student Board meetings and referred to the classes before a final vote; the motion was carried unanimously and all future officers must retain a passing average to remain in office. These standards are necessary to assure a higher standard of ideals for the rest of the student body to follow.

ARTISANS CLUB

JEANETTE KERRUISH
MARY VAN RIVER
MARY HEIMICK
ANN VARGASKO

The Artisans Club, which is made up of the Costume Design and Dressmaking classes, had a high standing record made by its previous members to live up to.

With this in mind, the program for the year was opened by a tea held at the Women's Club which the Seniors gave for the new members of the club.

This year the Artisans Club has been given an opportunity to participate in the weekly assemblies. The first of these was the Thanksgiving program which was prepared by several members of the club. Following the assembly Miss Hazel Randall, of the International Silk Guild gave a very interesting talk on silk.

The crowning social event of the year was a dance held in the Recreation Hall on February 17.

During an assembly period in March a style show was given in which the outstanding clothes made during the year were shown.

DIETETICS CLUB

President JANE MANDERSON
 Vice-President HELEN HOUSEMAN
 Secretary-Treasurer JESSIE BAKER

This year the Dietetics Club has endeavored to interest all dietetics students in the value of school club work as a background for membership, upon graduation, in alumni, city, state, and national organizations. At a tea given early in the year, Miss Feenev spoke to the club on the history of our school association and its opportunities and responsibilities as a junior chapter of a large national organization.

Miss Rock spoke to the club on the opportunities for home economists in the field of business. She mentioned as requisites for these positions an ability to cook skillfully, a real interest in food, a constant enthusiasm for new ideas, an aptitude for food preparation for photography and display work, writing reports clearly and accurately, a working knowledge of chemistry in relation to food, and a willingness to go where the positions are available.

An effort was also made to bring to the members of the club speakers from the field of home economics who have become successful in the field.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

President EMILY MARFILIUS
 Vice-President FLORENCE KUREJWO
 Secretary POLLY EVERETT
 Treasurer DORIS NETWORK

Since the officers of the Home Economics Club were elected in the spring they were able to do their share of entertaining members of other college groups during the New York State Home Economics Convention held May 22 and 23 in New York City. At this convention Emily Marfilius was elected president of all the Home Economics college clubs in the State.

Further interest was aroused by the attendance of Emily Moeller and Emily Marfilius to the National Home Economics Convention held at Pittsburgh in June. They discussed their visit and brought back news and information about other clubs throughout the United States.

To welcome the new students to the Institute and acquaint them with their fellow students, the club sponsored a get-together in Recreation Hall. Games were played, names exchanged and refreshments were served. Also, as is the usual custom, a tea was given for members of high school clubs in New York City on November 18.

S. & T. STUDENT BOARD

Chairman
Secretary-Treasurer

GEORGE A. LOVE
JAMES A. GUIDA

During the current school year the S. & T. Student Board has made itself well known in the S. & T. School by its accomplishments. This Board consisting of the Presidents of the various classes of the S. & T. School plus the Editor of Prattonia and the Chairman of the Athletic Association, was originated last year when Mr. MacKonzie called several meetings of all S. & T. class presidents and discussed with them the possibilities and need of such an organization. Plans were made for the year to come and everything was made ready for instant action at the start of the year.

The Board's program has been carried out with great success. The support given the Board by the S. & T. students has been splendid from the big Freshmen Smoker in the Gym at the beginning of the year through to the publication of the first S. & T. School Paper. It is hoped that the latter, called the "Data Board", will someday become a weekly or bi-weekly S. & T. paper.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

Chairman
Vice-Chairman
Sec'y-Treasurer

WILLIAM M. MORSELL
ARVID ANDERSON
GEORGE E. WOODGER

The Pratt Branch of the A.S.M.E. is composed of two groups: the regular student branch and the aeronautical group. This year the aeronautical group held many meetings separately and great interest was shown in it.

The meetings consisted mainly of talks by outside, faculty, and student speakers. The highlights of the first semester's meetings were Mr. Kenneth Condit's review of the history of the parent society, Mr. D. R. Dohner's dissertation on the relation of art to engineering, George Beischer's "280,000 Miles of Bridges", the Corboly demonstration and lecture, and the session with Mr. Schmidt and Mr. Quier which brought forth some interesting facts about engineering education.

Students represented the branch at the Metropolitan Convention at the Stevens Institute of Technology, Annual National Convention in New York, and the Eastern District Convention at Princeton University.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

Chairman HAROLD GRUENBERG
Secretary-Treasurer WILLIAM E. MOULIC

In March of 1914 the Pratt Institute Electrical Association was formed with the purpose and quoting from the preamble of its constitution: "...to encourage scientific research, especially as regards electrical industries..." The Association was in active operation from the date of its origin until it was superseded by the Pratt Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in February of 1930.

In 1902 the national organization of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers formulated plans by which students of electrical engineering in any school of recognized standing could organize a Student Branch. In February, 1930, Pratt Institute converted its Electrical Association into the present Student Branch of the A.I.E.E. Mr. C. C. Carr, acting head of the electrical department, has served as Counselor of the Branch from 1930 to 1938. Mr. D. H. Wiltsch of the electrical department faculty is the present Counselor.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS

President RAY J. ZIEGLER
Vice-President GEORGE A. LOVE
Secretary-Treasurer JACK OLSEN

Through the efforts of several of our well known graduates and with the able guidance of our Faculty, a charter was granted to Pratt Institute by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers to organize a Student Chapter.

A committee was appointed to draw up a constitution which was voted upon and accepted by the students.

The object of the A.I.Ch.E. is to foster technical and social meetings throughout the school year, which had previously been carried out with great success by the Wohler Society.

The first regular meeting was the Inaugural Dinner held early in February at which time several Executive Officers of the A.I.Ch.E. addressed the students and faculty.

The annual formal dance was well attended and was equally as well managed and carried as the annual Banquet.

The second year of the A.I.Ch.E. Student Chapter is looked forward to as one which will help the students in their 'problems' both technically and socially.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

President WARREN W. SMITH
 Vice-President KURT H. SCHAEFFER
 Secretary-Librarian JOHN B. SMITH

The purpose of the photography club is to further interest in the various phases of photography. Members are accorded the privileges of using the darkroom in the Chemistry building, and also receive reduced rates on various photographic magazines.

During the year the club has received interesting lectures from Eastman Kodak Co., and valuable books from Eastman and other photographic houses. These are available through the club's library. Through the efforts of the president, the club listened to very interesting lectures on color photography by representatives of Dufaycolor Inc., and Eastman. Drs. Kinney and Dixon have given several interesting talks on developers and exposure meters during the year. Aside from the lectures themselves, the members held informal discussions and contests.

The club wishes to thank all those members of the faculty and student body for their whole-hearted cooperation with the work of the club, and also those companies who have so generously donated lectures and literature.

GLEE CLUB

Director SARA DIGATE
 President WALTER CHANAS
 Vice-President ELIZABETH CLEWER
 Secretary EVELYN BRISTOL
 Treasurer HELEN SCALA

If you hear an artist or engineer emitting strange noises which sound like "le-you" and "ello clep," don't call in the psychiatrist. He's just practicing up for our big spring concert. Just wait until you hear "Ich Liebe Dich" and the "Donkey Serenade" at this our most ambitious appearance to date. Remember our rendition (ahem) of the "Virgin's Slumber Song" and "Gosa Bambino" with Elizabeth Clewer Soprano and Walter Chanas tenor? And what a tenor! And of course it has been no secret that we have also taken part in the noon hour services.

Most of our time, however, has been spent in preparing for the concert. The soulful way in which the engineers sing "Ich Liebe Dich" makes us wonder where they've been all our lives.

Ah me. Strange are the ways of women. There is a male majority (for cannot one good bass hold his own against three sopranos?) in this group of geniuses; and we are amazed that more of the fair sex can't produce a voice for at least one hour twice a week.

DEBATING CLUB

President BERNARD PALUMBO
 Vice-President GEORGE DOXEY
 Secretary-Treasurer MILAN MOCKOVCIJAH

The Debating club arose out of a practical necessity. That necessity being the lack of knowledge of the science, yet somehow difficult, art of public speaking before a public group — effectively.

Its beginnings were rather inconspicuous. A group of present third year men, back in their second year, discussed the feasibility of such a unit. Interest grew and finally, under the advisership of Mr. Cowles, a set of by-laws were drafted, passed on to the Executive Board of the S. & T. school, and the ball was set rolling. Officers were elected and, under the able leadership of John Hango and Bernard Palumbo, past and present presidents respectively, the club has functioned smoothly with a slow, but steady rise in popularity.

The graduating members have full confidence in those remaining to carry on the good work. It's a good thing — don't let it down.

PRATT PLAYSHOP

For its fourth annual Production the Pratt Playshop this year presents, 'Liliom'. As before the Playshop draws its talent from all branches of the Institute—members of the art school and the H. S. and A. are among the cast. Electricians and mechanics from the engineering school collaborate on lighting. Sets are being executed by some of the art students under the direction of Mr. Bonrime. Costumes are designed and made by several of the Costume Design girls. An original score to accompany the play has been written by Deems Taylor, naturally this musical background will be provided by our own musicians.

The production, as in previous years, is under the direction of Mr. Samuel Gilman, graduate of the art school, class of '37. Two performances of 'Liliom' will be presented on the evenings of April the Twelfth and Thirteenth.

WOMEN'S CLUB

To the women of the Institute as well as their selected male guests, the Women's Club is synonymous with good food, congenial companies and pleasantly relaxing surroundings. Student members have the privilege of using the large, modern kitchen, and during noon hours the Club is a beehive of activity as the girls prepare their lunches with much clattering of pots and pans. During the first month of the new semester two teas are given at the Club to which all students of all of the schools are invited to attend. Permission is granted very frequently to groups and classes who wish to prepare suppers. To Mrs. Hewlett goes special praise and appreciation for making the Women's Club an enjoyable pastime to so many students and for retaining an atmosphere of charm and friendliness.

GET-TOGETHER CLUB

The Get-together Club has only been in existence a few years but already it has caught the enthusiasm of the Pratt girls who enjoy the informal meetings, suppers and get-togethers the club arranges during the year. At Christmas time and special events the club has a gala supper and exchanges favors. Many an interesting hour is spent around the piano while one of the members plays and the rest harmonize more or less successfully. More and more girls are participating in the activities of the club and it is hoped that the new school year will find it growing in membership and good times.

MEN'S CLUB

President
Vice-President
Secretary

WILLIAM YANARELLA
LOUIS ASADORIAN
BRADLEY HIGGINS

The one place where all the men come together in good fellowship, irrespective of which school or class they may belong to, knowing that it is there solely for their own use. Here they may indulge in a hard fought game of bowling in the alley downstairs; a good article to read in the reading room; perhaps a game of pool on the second floor.

The jazz band goes at full blast, chiming in with the rolling boom and click clackety-clack of the ten pins or duck pin games below; and at frequent intervals the ringing of phones mix with sundry other noises, such as the "L" right outside the doors.

In Mr. Wright we had a leader whose unselfish endeavors to see that we all enjoyed our stay at Pratt and that those who needed it were given employment, placing us under lasting obligations. We all know that we shall always have a warm welcome awaiting for us at Pratt as long as he is there.

DATA BOARD

Editor
Business Manager
Associate Editor

GEORGE M. BEISCHER
ERIC B. KINDQUIST
WILLIAM MOULIC

Born of the inspiration to bind in the mighty class of common knowledge and understanding; matured by the thankless sweat of the visionaries who see the future in the events of the present; given to the service of all — such is the noble character of the Data Board.

Conceived a year ago, realized this year the old adage "Mighty oaks from little acorns grow" is fitting but hardly proper for the Data Board. Still too new to boast a private sanctum it emerges from amid the frantic scurryings and disquieting noises of the Men's Club — an accomplishment of no small weight.

Founded on the time tested dictum of "for the students — by the students" the Data Board stands as more than printed page for it symbolizes the very heart of student expression. The Data Board — the newspaper that the S. & T. may be well proud of!

SOCIAL

SOCIAL STUFF . . .

... 'twas brillig and the jitterbugs did jive and jumble in the wabe ..."

Rather appropriate we think to describe the antics and enthusiasms of our favorite pratties as they dashed madly about to teas, dances, parties and more dances. The entire year has been bursting with innumerable social and extra-curricular activities so necessary to soothe the troubled minds of our hardworking fellow students. . . .

Charm and hospitality seemingly radiate at the teas given by the Women's Club the last two Sundays in September. These teas are always a provocative subject for reminiscences . . . ah yes, many a romance has budded here perhaps to bloom amidst the congenial and romantic Brooklyn surroundings. Informality and friendliness of these teas with the added attraction of dozens of sandwiches and gallons of the good brew to make each newcomer and returning upper-classman expand in a feeling of graciousness and . . . well friendliness.

Of course the first hint of student activities brought the Student Council to the fore with a steady flow of afternoon dances held in the "north ballroom." This year found the dances under the harassed but capable guidance of a misguided committee who struggled bravely to give you and you an enjoyable afternoon. Just to keep the records straight we thought the orchestra was surprisingly rhythmical and good with a pat on the back for daring to try recordings for a musical change. The originality and novelty of the 'Paul Jones' proved a decided success and the dimes rolled in more freely, making a most appreciative tinkle. Lets hope this idea will find a niche in the brave and ambitious hearts of next years committee . . . these afternoon hops have afforded the students fun and frolic at a minimum cost in a minimum length of time . . . ah me, prattonic efficiency.

Again the early social jigs were planned for the benefit of the new students, as we coax, wheedle and shove them into a bewildering array of teas, teas and well . . . teas . . . The Artsmen and the Palletesters started their newcomers in the swing of things by giving a Howdy Dance that acquainted them with everyone from that very smooth senior to that glamorous Homer St. John . . . Over in the H.S.A. tepee the Home Economics Club welcomed their sweet young things with a party lots to eat and a lavish distribution of services from Senior Sisters, and the new Senior Student Sponsors ready to help the frosh orientate herself to her new surroundings . . . mmm . . . not a bad idea . . . Not meaning to exclude our happy, happy friends from across the tracks . . . the engineers . . . who entertained their new etceteras with er-ah tea . . . so you see we're so good to all of our freshmen . . . and there's so tired of it all . . .

SOCIAL STUFF . . . .

Perhaps the most publicized, planned and finely executed dance given at school is the Artsmen's annual hop. This year it flaunted the eye catching title of the "Swing Cotillion" and a clever dance it was. The unusual effect of low hanging ceilings and draped colored muslin on the walls turned an otherwise hopeless interior into one of intimacy and color . . . For an appreciative change the orchestra was not shoved in a corner to play plaintively while the dancers sidled up to peer at them . . . oh no . . . they were most cosily esconced in a band stand, playing happily away with the genial and beneficent figure of a papier mache cupid swinging precariously above them . . . The entrance to the dance was appropriately surrealistic and pretentious . . . it WAS different . . . However the most amazing and terrific item of this stuperfluous event was the formal announcement and subsequent crowning of the 'Senior Queen of the Art School' . . . and a very pretty queen she was too . . . with a most attractive crew of attendants all smile bedecked and soon dripping with flowers . . . wonder if the boys will enthuse about another queen for next year . . . ?

The season for dances and dances seemingly goes on forever . . . although the Artsmen dance was held Dec. 4 and all loyal prattites supported the basketball games and dances, during the few weeks before the greatly anticipated winter vacation nothing of importance could be found to soothe the jitterbugs. However the various parties and plays given by the organizations occupied the attention of hurrying, dashing Pratt Students while the more enticing visions of sugar plums danced thru their heads . . .

SOCIAL STUFF . . .

January the month of cramming and working, with much burning of the midnight oil . . . quiet and dull . . . socially . . . Basketball games lost and won and Student Council afternoon dances going on forever . . . Along in February . . . the 17th we think, the Artisans Club composed of those clever, smart costume designers burst forth with their annual little number to the tune of an excellent orchestra, a mob of congenial guys and gals and a rousing round of "Happy Birthday" . . . fun, cosy and a success . . . A lull . . . or perhaps just a momentary respite was boisterously and effectively disrupted by the fun and laughter provided by the "Second Annual Junior Jig" given by the freshmen costume designers. Brightly colored balloons were bunched in madcap array in strategic spots and colored paper dummy figures were boldly tacked on the walls with the names of senior guests sprawled on them individually . . . The evening was spent in a unanimous attempt to undecorate the walls and figuring ingenious methods to obtain seconds of some excellent punch . . .

All of the foregoing events were as a muted prelude to the magnificence and importance of the greatest event in the social lives of our seniors while at school. Of course . . . the Senior Promenade . . . We found it the biggest and best of any seen, heard of, or attended . . . The beauty of the Starlight Roof provided a most appropriate setting for the seniors and their escorts as they glided and whirled to the tune of an exceptional orchestra . . . at this their last get-together . . . We're sure it will remain a pleasant memory to all who attended and we place it as a mark for future prom committees to aim at . . . good luck . . .

SOCIAL STUFF . . .

Then . . . the Swimming Pool Committee of the Student Council invited everyone to Memorial Hall for the exclusive showing of some old time thrillers, all for the small, infinitesimal and worthy sum of fifteen cents per head . . . per person . . . per etc. . . . The resulting fun included catcalls, eerie yells and sound effects offered indiscriminately and simultaneously by the howling audience . . . the addition of peanuts . . . crackerjacks and popcorn would have given it that Grover Whalen touch . . .

The annual production of the Pratt Playshop was for the third and most successful time played to two full houses. The play "Liliom" provided many interesting and amusing moments with a toss-up for the finest acting ability displayed. We think the Playshop has something. . . .

Ah, yes, our very personal account of the Chems Wohler formal . . . Quite nice, quite nice . . . We must say the boys did a neat a job of decorating as ever . . . the Wohler formal is one of the most impressive of all dances given at the Institute . . . The Chems have fun . . . or so we hear.

We've finally come to the very end . . . well perhaps not the end of all doings however . . . For noted on our calendar for consideration in the next very few weeks before the end of the semester and graduation . . . there is the Senior Reception for our weary seniors the day before that memorable graduation . . . After that . . . well it's up to you . . . To the seniors who are leaving Pratt Institute we wish godspeed and good luck . . . To those of you who are still here and to future pratttonians . . . have fun and carry on for a bigger and better 1940 . . .

BOOK STORE

The Book Store, under the direction of Mr. Butler and his able assistants is sponsored for the benefit of the students. Here the students may obtain the very finest in materials, books and written information for their school needs. It is hoped that the Book Store will continue its valuable service in the future.

REST HOUSE

Very little needs be said concerning the Rest House, for breathes there a Pratt student who hasn't at some time or other enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Hale and Mrs. Hatch while luxuriatingly fighting those pesky germs, measles or even a severe case of dandruff. For a minimum fee of one dollar a day, a student may stay at the Rest House in case of illness until he is pronounced fit and able enough to prance back to his studios. Not only do patients enjoy every convenience, but the possibility of effusive friends offering cheery words of comfort plus the added probability of a bunch of posies the result of plundering the class treasury is very intriguing. Sounds rather cosy doesn't it? Remember, whenever you have a sprain, break, cold or "symptoms," see Miss Hale and after a few preliminary examinations perhaps you will be eligible for a stay at the Rest House . . . simple?

IN MEMORIAM

SAMUEL SUMNER EDMANDS, who died on May 24, 1938, from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, had been with the School since 1901; first, as instructor in electricity, later as head of the department of Applied Electricity, and since 1910 as Director of the School. Dr. Edmands had built up an exceptionally high standard of service by the School in the development of both Day and Evening Divisions of its work. He had stimulated a deep sense of loyalty and duty on the part of the students and instructors in carrying out his plans.

A graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, he was awarded by that institution, in 1930, the honorary degree of Doctor of Engineering in recognition of his keen interest and proven ability in engineering education.

The Trustees of Pratt Institute at the commencement exercises held June 9, 1938, posthumously awarded Dr. Edmands the Institute's Diploma of Honor for "successful management of one of its major divisions, and for an original plan of engineering education cut short of its completion by his untimely death."

HAROLD M. DE GURIO, who died on June 7, 1938 was a student of Advertising Design in the School of Fine and Applied Arts. His memory will forever remain within our hearts. To us who knew and respected him his place will never be filled.

ALLEN ROGERS, who died on November 4, 1938, after an illness of several months joined the faculty of the School in 1905. He had served continuously in the Department of Chemistry, first, as instructor, and later as Head of the Department and Supervisor of the Course in Industrial Chemical Engineering.

Coincident with his work here, Dr. Rogers was Consulting Engineer for many large industrial and commercial firms, but his chief attention and devotion was to the School and the development of its work. Students were all aware of his deep interest in their progress. He had a loyal and devoted following with the alumni of his course which is manifest in their splendid organization and support today.

Dr. Rogers in 1917-18 gave invaluable service to his country as Major in the Chemical Warfare Service. In 1920 he received the Grasselli medal for his work in adapting shark skin for commercial use. He was a member of and had served as an officer in many of the leading Chemical and Engineering Societies of the nation.

WALTER C. ROGERS, JR., who died on July 9, 1938 as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident was a student of Architecture in the School of Fine and Applied Arts. It was with a sense of deep regret that the student and faculty learned of his passing.
